How to play (quick summary):

1. Pass out the game sheets, write down your name and the number of points you think you'll have by the end of the game (your target score).
2. Randomly pick a letter and play along the usual city-country-river rules until the sheet is filled out. Make sure to select a new letter after each round, i.e. after each row.
3. There are two winners: the player with the highest number of points and the player whose final number of points was closest to the target score they set at the beginning.

Scoring:

- 20 points if you are the only one to come up with a word for a category.
- 10 points if no other player has the same word.
- 5 points if two or more players have the same word.
